BOY HELD FOR MURDER

Michigan Youth Accused of Having Thrown Body of Another Into River Following Quarrel
ALMA, Mich., June 3.—Twelve-year-old Percy Kiter of St. Louis, Mich., is retained for investigation today following his alleged confession that he beat to death his year-old schoolmate, Adolph van Walleken, and threw the thelatter's nude body into Pine river.

Kiter and Van Wallaghen quarreled over the disposition of stolen goods, according to Prosecutor Clark.

A third boy witnessed the quarrel, it is said.

Van Wallaghen was at first supposed to have been the victim of an accidental drowning. School boys were heard to whisper that he was drowned.

Prosecutor Romaine Clark questioned several youths and declares that Kiter admitted the act.

Kiter knocked his adversary down the high bank of the river near where they quarreled, followed him, beat his head against a limb, and dressed the body and rolled it into the river, Clark said.

The alleged slayer then proceeded to school and acted as cool while taking an examination that it was a long time before he was even suspected of knowledge of his schoolmate's death.

Another Liquor Boas Seized.

COMING FAIR TO BE TULSA'S BEST

Larger Premiums Offered Shorthorn Men Than State Fair

The Tulsa County Free Fair association, as an association, offers shorthorn breeders larger premiums than the state fair, was the announcement made by Paul C. Meyer, secretary, at the regular luncheon of the fair board Saturday noon at Ed Woods cafe and greeted warmly.

Meyer Heads Figures.
Waving a just-issued Tulsa county fair premium list in one hand and the equally new state fair book in the other, Meyer read figures showing that the Tulsa county association offers exactly $1,655.50 in amount while the state fair offers $1,600. He acclaimed this a remarkable showing for only a county fair in comparison with a state fair and stated his expectation that the large amount of prizes given here and the high reputation which the county fair is making will draw as many shorthorn entries here as to Oklahoma City.

The state fair retains a slight margin in premiums, however, due to the fact that the national shorthorn breeders association with headquarters in Chicago, offers premiums amounting to $800 in the state fair and premiums amounting to $300 in the Tulsa county fair. Though the national association in entering a county fair at all is committing an invitation in its practice and though its gift of $300 is greatly appreciated by the county fair association, next year a still larger amount will be asked from the association.

Chamber to Co-operate.
The Tulsa Chamber of Commerce stands ready at any time to co-operate with the county fair officials, as with all other organizations interested in developing this territory, and to render any assistance within its power in the making of a greater and better fair, Charles Holden, secretary, told fair directors, stating his understanding that the present fair site was inadequate, he expressed hope that the fair may be properly housed in the future and predicted that its present state of growth would soon place it in the front rank of fairs in the southwest.

Interests of the fair association and the chamber are mutual in that both seek to build up this county. Holden declared. "No city can grow great unless the territory around it is purposely developed. The county fair has the same mission, the promotion of the agricultural interests. The agricultural committee of the chamber will seek to promote in this county better livestock, more dairying and better marketing of products, better farming and these things in the long run are what the fair seeks." That boys and girls can play a good part in upbuilding a fair and indirectly farming was shown by Holden in records from agricultural communities in Iowa.

Township Fairs First.
D. A. Wilson, president of the board, and Meyer urged the directors to busy themselves in preparation for their township fairs and in activities for the county fair. Meyer would like to have a majority of the entries in early so as to give ample time for arrangement of space, and for stretching of space, too, if it becomes necessary. The very first to make entries are J. L. Duke and E. L. Johnson of Skiatook, both of whom will show in the Durbin Jersey hog class. Duke won a number of premiums last year. James Malone, county agent, said that his office would assist in the preparation of township premium lists by furnishing the number and names of exhibitors known to be interested.

LOS ANGELES, June 3.—A complete and emphatic denial of the charges brought against him by Mrs. Harold Clark that he attacked her daughter, Dorothy Clark, was on file today in the superior court by Herbert Rawlins, motion picture actor, who is being sued for $200,000 by Mrs. Clark.

Assaults Daugherty's Assistant.

Radio Concerts From Tulsa Are Heard From Afar

The great distances have been brought to Tulsa's door by the Midland Refining company-Tulsa World broadcasting radio station "W E H," so letters, telegrams and radio calls to the Radio Editor of The Tulsa World advise.

Saturday night the musical concert broadcast by the Midland-World station, was acknowledged by radio enthusiasts in West Virginia, Minnesota, Bakersfield, Cal., and from many points in Oklahoma and Kansas. On Friday night Mr. LeMorte, in charge of the broadcasting station, talked with the operator of the Mexican government's radio station at Chihuahua, Mexico.

The musical numbers that the Midland-World station broadcast last night were so clear and distinct that many people in Tulsa, as well as adjacent towns, were able to dance to them.

H. O. Mason, of 1204 East Fifth street, who almost "queered" the Sherrill jury last week, by collapsing from a weakened heart, after he had been accepted, was able to hear the concert from his bed at home. He had The World thanked for the good cheer that the music gave him.

The jury that is trying Mrs. Sherrill visited The World office and listened "in" on the concert, afterwards visiting the broadcasting room in the Unity building. It was the first experience that many of them had ever had with the radio.

The Hotel Brady also "caught" the Midland-World concert and supplied its guests with a concert there last night.

Men With Bullets Wound in Arm and Carrying Ward Company Pass Is Held at Philadelphia.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 3.—District Attorney Weeks was notified this afternoon by the Philadelphia police that a man named John Guido, with a bullet wound in his arm and carrying a Ward Baking company pass in his pocket was taken into custody there today. Believing that Guido may be the man wounded by Walter S. Ward, the young millionaire, at the time he killed Clarence Peters, District Attorney Weeks arranged to send a man to Philadelphia at once to question him.

Death threats received by Ward resulted in a special guard being placed around the Ward home at New Rochelle, it was learned today. Two plainclothes members of the New Rochelle police force were on duty at the house throughout the night. Today they were relieved by two others who took up positions inside the house.

A batch of threatening letters has been turned over by Ward to his attorneys and it is understood federal authorities have been notified. An investigation of the slaying of Peters and the story told by Ward of a blackmailing plot will be undertaken by the West Chester county grand jury on Monday.

SENATOR ASSAILS DEMOCRAT VIEWS

Opposition to Tariff Is Prompted by Bankers, He Declares

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Senator Gooding, republican of Idaho, chairman of the "farm tariff bloc," charged in the senate today that the democratic opposition to the Cumber bill was fomented by "international bankers" and department houses.

"It is the international bankers who have lost interest in the American people, who have lost touch with the needs of the American industry, who have gone out of their way to accentuate the importance of the attempt on the democratic side to hold this bill up as unconstitutional, as morally wrong, as robbery of the American," declared Gooding.

"And it is the department houses—the shysters of America—who have lost control of the metropolitan press by advertising running into hundreds of thousands of dollars, who do not want a protective tariff, which will prevent them from the real purpose and animus behind the democratic attacks upon this bill."
